ARBITRATION.

It must be arbitration. By no other means can further bloodshed be averted.
By no other means can an army of nearly 500 workmen be saved from suffering and want. By no other means can the Carnegie mills come to resume their work peacefully, effectively and profitably as yet.The laws must and will be enforced.
As soon as a proper constitutional regulation reaches the Governor of Pennsylvania State troops will be ordered to Homestead and the Carnegie Company will be put into full possession of their property. But can they fail to anticipate the trouble they will find in the place of their old hands with strangers?It must be arbitration. For the good of all parties concerned and for the public safety the difficulty between the employer and the employed should be amicably adjusted. We do not credit the report that "Mr. Finck has received Mr. Cansar's ultimatum that the Company will hold out on its present lines to the end, no matter what the end may be." Mr.
Carnegie will not surrender the employment of any of the discharged workers, and that he declares he will hold out until grass overgrows the mills, rather than give in to the Association.Business prudence as well as humanity protest against any such ultimatum.
Besides, the story comes from Pittsburgh that the Carnegie Company has signed the workmen's scale for the Beaver Falls plant. This looks like returning reason.
It is to be hoped it will be followed by a settlement of the Homestead troubles.

It must be arbitration.

HORSE PLAY IN EATING.

The more one reads about food the less one cares to take the risk of eating. Scientists are continually meddling with our bills of fare and have unveiled so many holes in them that they look like chunks of open-work insertion, and are no more filling than aerated red balloons or fluff-patch porous plasters.A California dinner into the arena of the cuisine has arrived at the conclusion that cooking devalues victuals, kills them, toxemizes them, and he puts nothing into his system but raw cereals.He gets along on three-quarters of a pound of wheat a day, and when he grows reckless and gives himself a double burger banquet he expends for grain in bulk reaches the pinnacle of anti-civilized extravagance, which is ten cents.The California menu is cheap and handy, and breakfast arranged on this schedule cannot give a wife much worry.It saves coal and quenches an insatiable thirst, and doesn't draw red ants or Palo Alto breed roaches. "The California" can carry his entire day's fodder in a single coat pocket, and whenever he feels his pylorus getting racy, and the pangs of hunger are gnawing at his gastric membrane he can reach for a grain of red winter wheat with its nitrogenous jacket on and send it scotching down his esophagus to arbitrate the intestine troubles. The only disadvantage about this luxurious mode of living is that a shortage in the Kansas or South Dakota crops may throw a man's appetite down and send it on its way to the land of no further use of it.

THE STATE LAW VIOLATED.

A few days ago THE EVENING WORLD suggested the advisability of Congressional action to put a stop to the evil of an association like the Pinkerton Agency, organized for the purpose of sending armed bands into the different States for fighting purposes. We pointed out the non-constitutional and dangerous character of such an act, which is in fact making war on a small scale against a portion of the citizens of a State.Congress has now taken up the subject, and there is hope that a United States law will provide effectively for the suppression of the evil and for the punishment of all persons who organize, enlist in or hire the services of such bands.Meanwhile the fact that the Pinkerton Homestead force was partly recruited in this city is now admitted. Can it be possible that our laws permit the recruiting of armed bands in New York to be used as a hostile force against any portion of the people of another State?The recruited men are said to have been deceived as to the nature of the business in which they were to be employed. They were not told that they were to be armed and used to "force the strikers into order," which one of the Pinkertons now admits to have been the object of the levy.
They were made to believe that they were to be engaged in a peaceful and legitimate business and were to receive a certain amount of wages. But misrepresentations made to the men would be no defense provided the recruiting and arming of the force in this city is an illegal act.This matter ought to receive the attention of the authorities of the State and of the United States. District Attorney Nicoll should also see whether the recruiting violates any law relating to the Pinkerton Agency in this State.

CHOLERA PRECAUTIONS.

There is no occasion for a cholera panic in New York. The city is healthy, the water is pure, and we are subject to few of those disadvantages which help to spread an epidemic in some cities. The streets are now kept fairly clean and THE EVENING WORLD'S visiting doctors do good work in the detection and speedy relief of disease.Nevertheless, the spread of cholera in St. Petersburg and Paris reads us a lesson of precaution, and will put our Quarantine and medical authorities on the alert to watch for the first symptoms of its appearance here. It is especially important that the street-cleaning should be diligently and unceasingly pushed just now in the crowded tenement-house districts of the city. It is far more necessary to keep such localities clean and wholly free from dirt heaps and garbage than tosweep and pick up every atom of soil on Broadway and Fifth Avenue. When an epidemic breaks out in the poorer parts of the city, it does not respect the brown-stone residents and the broad avenues.The Health Department ought to be especially active and efficient in the prevention of its outbreaks at this time.
The management of the sanitary branch of the Department is of great importance, and it is especially important that the Sanitary Board, composed of the most excellent and experienced medical consultants, should be kept as it was of the very best professional ability and experience in the city, should have been broken up. It would be a crime to impair political influences to destroy or impair the efficiency of the sanitary work of the Department at the moment other cities are troubled with a cholera epidemic.Why would it not be a wise precaution to turn in the by-laws in the tenementhouse districts every night for the next two months, thoroughly denouncing the gutter and erasing the hot streets?

CHRISTIAN INDIVIDUALS.

New York is filled with the colorful banners, bright colored ribbons and glittering medals of the Christian Endeavers who are now in session in this city.
They are to be seen everywhere in the street cars, on the Elevated trains, and even in the hideous, rambling, confusion, confusion, Fifth Avenue stages. They are to be seen in Central Park, at the theatres and gardens, on the Brooklyn Bridge, at the museums and public libraries, and more than all at the Pulitzer Building, where, mounting to the famous dome, they enjoy the best view to be had of the city.There is a pleasant novelty about this worldwide gathering. The members are mainly intelligent-looking, practical young men and bright-eyed, smiling, attractive young women. There do not seem to be any miserable sinners, nor any rascals and canters in the crowd. With them religion and morality seem to be associated with sunshine and light, not with clouds and gloominess. They appear to be just the people to do real good, by good example, in the world.If they direct their endeavors towards purging public life of feeding pointers, other dogs, and all other vicious, unpleasant, and dishonest, making the points of view, of sentimentalism and hypocrisy, inducing people to walk in the straight path of honor and rectitude and to treat their neighbors as they would be treated by their neighbors, they will seek to accomplish a good work and their efforts will no doubt be crowned with success.

AN UNENVIABLE STAND.

The Sun enjoys the unenviable notoriety of being the only newspaper in this city that has nothing but approval and encouragement for the Carnegie Company and nothing but denunciation and abuse for the workmen at Homestead, whom it calls "strikers."The men are not "strikers" in the accepted meaning of the term. They did not strike for increased wages. They refused to agree to an "all round" reduction of their pay, averaging 20 per cent.
Thereupon the rates of the mills were locked against them and they were turned adrift by the Company.Every day else is depicting the trouble and urging a friendly settlement, while the Sun is charging against the workmen as a black and bloody record of murder and robbery, and predicting in the United States an experience such as Paris underwent during the "bloody days of June" in 1848, unless they are exterminated by the bullets and bayonets of the State militia. For that is the real meaning of the Sun when it hounds the Governor of Pennsylvania for not sending troops to Homestead before a proper regulation has been made upon him by the disturbed county.

THE PAVING STRIKE OVER.

The striking pavers have surrendered "unconditionally," it is said, to the terms of the contractors. An agreement was reached yesterday and all works will be resumed next Monday.The strike has continued for nine weeks. The men were forced to surrender by want. Their supplies were stopped by the organization, and the men had to choose between yielding and starving.Now that the strike is at an end it is to be hoped that the contractor will deal generously with the men, and concede to them all that can be consistently conceded in the amount of pay and in the conditions imposed upon their labor.Paris is to call cholera by its right name at last. Perhaps it appeared less alarming as cholera, but the death-roll was not so frightful, and now that the disease is off, people may be convinced that it is worth while to take extraordinary precautions. The pestilence has really assumed unenviable proportions in parts of Europe. This is not to say that there is danger of its coming to America. There is no cause for fear.But it is gratifying to observe that the Government Marine Hospital authorities are awake and have spoken for the first time precautionary steps to be taken in case of an invasion of disease.Because they hadn't the patience to wait till they could best in matters on their spiral, but burglars who went through a canned fruit store and then, on the same premises, went through the fruit, were caught almost red-handed. Appetite has spoiled in similar ways many good and bad plans of men and boys.Mr. Bland has accomplished nothing to date by his haste to make the House scene of a fresh silver fight, except to show that the bill has apparently less chance among the Representatives than it had before the Senate passed it.
